

Selectmen Reject Police List

Selectmen last week returned as unacceptable a list of intermittent police officers to Civil Service. A request for a full-time police officer was also withdrawn.

In a letter to Civil Service, Selectmen noted they had already voted to appoint Frederick Grassie to a full-time permanent position vacancy as a patrolman with the Police Department. Grassie has been serving as a permanent intermittent officer and was the remaining name on the first May appointment list.

Although Selectmen notified Civil Service of their desire to have Grassie appointed a full-time officer, a second intermittent list which was generated in July, listed three new names.

Selectmen were also concerned that the Civil Service letter which named these individuals was sent to the Police Chief and not to the Selectmen, the appointing authority.

Another point which was handled improperly, according to Selectmen, was the fact that two of the three persons on the second list received notification of their appointments at the Police Department, rather than at their homes.

of the budget, received unanimous approval and the committee turned its attention to the elementary schools.

At both the Osgood and Deer Hill Schools, $1500 was approved to add ramping entrances. Also approved for the Deer Hill School was $4000 for blacktopping and $6000 to replace electric light fixtures as part of an energy-conservation program.

A cafeteria program was also approved for the Deer Hill School. The National School Lunch program will provide 75 per cent of the money needed, with Cohasset to pay the remaining 25 per cent, or $5614.

Approved maintenance improvements at the junior-senior high school included $7000 for ramping entrances, $18,000 for blacktopping front parking lots and the addition of $2500 to the custodial overtime account for possible rescheduling of work hours.

Marilyn Watson, head of the physical education department at the high school, defended the $108,363 budget which has increased by about $9000 over last year. Watson said she is looking for staff accountability and anticipates a decrease in equipment turnover.

When Langmaid moved to cut archery from the physical education program because of possible safety hazards, Watson said the sport epitomized motor coordination and equipment care. His motion was defeated.

The budget for all district athletic programs was also discussed. And the committee approved $320 to pay chaperones at away games for basketball and hockey cheerleaders.
